

Angela Hershberger Presented with the APWA 2018 Young Professional of the Year Award

The American Public Works Association Monterey Bay Chapter awarded the 2018 Young Professional of the Year Award to Angela Hershberger, EIT at the Annual Awards Ceremony on January 24th 2018.

Angela joined the MME team in 2016 after graduating with a B.S. in Civil Engineering from Norwich University in May. Her ebullient attitude, clear communication skills, and attention to detail have made her an extraordinary addition to the team. Since the commencement of her employment here at MME she has showcased her capabilities as an engineer in numerous projects.

One of Angela's notable projects is the replacement of approximately 4,700 linear feet of water main on the Valencia Road between Huntington Road and Day Valley Road in Aptos, California. She designed the alignment for the entire project, and handled the challenges of incorporating fire hydrants, blow-off assemblies, valves, and service connections with ease

But her prowess is not restricted to calculations and design done in the office. She is currently providing construction management for the improvement of the intersection of Mt Hermon Road and Scotts Valley Drive. With daily site visits, weekly meetings, preparing and issuing responses to RFIs; Angela has kept the lines of communication between participating parties open and ensured the timeliness of project progress.

As an active member of the APWA, Angela truly embodies what it means to be an APWA Young Professional. She energetically participates in APWA events and demonstrated leadership as the manager of the YP summer softball team last year.

To be honored with such a highly coveted award is truly commendable. This special recognition of involvement in a wide range of innovative public works projects could not have been awarded to a more deserving individual. We at MME are proud to have Angela Hershberger, 2018 Young Professional of the Year, as a part of our team.
